PAUL WILLIAMS, M.D. is a 1975 graduate of the West Virginia University School of Medicine. After completing his residency and entering private practice, he moved to Atlanta, Georgia, where he practiced Emergency Medicine for over twenty years. Dr. Williams has served as a physician for several athletic teams and events, including the United States International Roller Hockey Team, the 1996 Summer Olympics; numerous high school teams, the Bell South Golf Classic. As an ER physician, he has seen literally thousands of patients with cardiovascular disease, cancer and other preventable diseases. He currently serves as Corporate Medical Director for NSA. His popular lectures have been seen around the U.S.

“Nutrition is not taught in many medical schools and is a blind spot for most physicians. There is no question that the impact of diseases can be lessened or prevented altogether with better nutrition.”
